CONDUCT OWN WORKS

London, To-day.

The Three Choirs Festival, one of the oldest and most notable musical events in Britain, which is held in turn each year in the Cathedral of either Gloucester, Worcester or Hereford, will begin its 213th meeting in Hereford Cathedral on Sunday.

Sir Edward Elgar will conduct two of his Oratorios, "Gerontius" and "The Kingdom," and among British composers contributing new works are Dr. Dyson and Martin Shaw.—British Wireless Service.

A somewhat unusual visitor to the city was seen this morning, when a large hearse drew from the direction of the Peak and alighted in the middle of the tennis courts of the Hong Kong Cricket Club.

NAZIS HOLD THREE DAYS CONVENTION

Nuremberg Gives Hitler A
Tumultuous Welcome

Nuremberg, To-day.
The city of Nuremberg in Bavaria is agog. The population has been trebled for three days for the Nazi Convention. Chancellor Hitler was tumultuously welcomed on his arrival. He is living in a tent with the "Brown Shirt" Army in a meadow outside the town.—Reuter.

WALLA - WALLA RAZED BY FIRE AT BLAKE PIER

Petrol Tank Explodes
During Tiffin Hour

TWO OF CREW BADLY BURNED

As the result of an explosion of the petrol tank on board No. 5 Walla-Walla, owned by the Union Motor Boat Company, at Blake Pier early this afternoon, two Chinese, the coxswain and a sailor, are now lying at the Government Civil Hospital suffering from severe burns on the body and face.

A few minutes before one o'clock the two men were about to fill the petrol tank when an explosion, from a cause at present unknown, occurred, severely injuring the sailor, who was leaning over the tank, and inflicting burns on the coxswain. The coxswain, despite his injuries, heroically attempted to put out the fire with the extinguisher carried on board, but was unable to manipulate it.

Meanwhile the flames had taken a firm hold of the engine and fore part of the vessel, sending up clouds of dense smoke.

To add to the danger the walla-walla started to drift towards the Star Ferry Pier. Another walla-walla attempted to take the burning vessel in tow, but its engine failed and it had to cut adrift.

The burning vessel then drifted back to Blake Pier, when it was secured with a boat hook.

Meanwhile the Fire Brigade had been informed and an appliance from the Central Station was quickly on the scene and the fire was extinguished in about five minutes. The vessel was damaged mainly about the bows. It was moored to one of the landing platforms of Blake Pier.

Both the coxswain and sailor, the latter carried on a stretcher, were conveyed to the Government Civil Hospital by ambulance.

Connaught Road, from the Star Ferry Pier to the P. & O. wharf was crowded with spectators watching the blaze, which occurred during the tiffin-hour rush. The Walla-walla although owned by the Union Motor Boat Company is run jointly by the Moonraker and Walla-Walla Motor Boat Companies of No. 28 Pottinger Street.

A BIGGER ARMY

DOLLFUSS EMISSARIES IN ROME

To Reorganise Heimwehr
On Fascist Lines.

ARMY QUOTA INCREASED
TO 30,000

Rome, To-day.

The European "armed camp" movement, exemplified by the defensive preparations of France and Belgium, have moved a further step by the arrival here of Prince von Starhemberg and Herr Reichel, emissaries of the Austrian Chancellor, Dr. Dollfuss, from Vienna. The Prince's visit is in connexion with the reorganisation of the Heimwehr on the lines of Fascist organisations.

In addition to strengthening the Heimwehr, Austria contemplates using the whole of the Peace Treaty quota Army of 30,000 instead of the present 21,000.

She also intends giving recruits six months' training instead of the present year, thus doubling the number of effectives.—Reuter.

U.S. TO PROMOTE DISARMAMENT

Mr. Davis Sails For Europe.

CARRIES MESSAGES FROM ROOSEVELT

New York, To-day.

It is believed that verbal messages from President Roosevelt to European Governments are being conveyed by Mr. Norman Davis, who sailed for Europe on the liner Washington yesterday.

The only indication that Mr. Davis gave of the nature of the messages was that the President was extremely hopeful that Europe would find a road leading to disarmament.

Mr. Davis will spend a few days in London and will then proceed to Geneva for the resumed disarmament discussions. He declares he will not discuss War Debts and economic questions.

No Confusing Of Issues.

WAR DEBTS NOT LINKED WITH DISARMAMENT.

New York, To-day.

America has abandoned her policy of making war debt concessions conditional on Disarmament according to Mr. Norman Davis, United States Delegate to the Disarmament Conference, who sailed for Europe on the liner Washington yesterday, en route to Geneva.

He declared that he was certainly against linking them, because each was a "tough enough nut to crack alone, and linking would spoil the chances of settlement of either problem."—Reuter.

The other two boats arrived at Esbjerg, Denmark, according to schedule.—British Wireless Service.

Britain's tropical heat wave still continues throughout the country, although yesterday there was a considerable drop in the abnormal temperature of the past month. Thermometer readings of 90 degrees in the shade have been recorded in some districts.

WHITE ANTS RAVAGING CATHEDRAL

$5,000 Needed For Repairs.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

The ravages of white ants in the roof timbers of St. John's Cathedral are causing grave concern and an immediate appeal for funds in order to carry out extensive repairs has been launched. These repairs and renewals, it is estimated, will cost at least $5,000.

A complete survey of the woodwork of the cathedral has just been completed, and a report has been issued by the architect, Mr. Iggesden. The presence of live white ants in the Cathedral was discovered last month, while a roof inspection was being made.

Among the renovations to be faced, is a complete overhaul of the electric lighting system which has been condemned following the Hong Kong Electric Company's examination.

CHECKING U.S. DOLLAR FLUCTUATIONS

Effect Of Modifying
Gold Embargo.

MAY LEAD TO OFFICIAL
DEVALUATION

New York, To-day.

That President Roosevelt's order for the modification of the gold embargo is the forerunner of official devaluation of the dollar, and that from now on the dollar will be content to fluctuate daily according to prices on the free gold markets of the world, is the belief of certain United States observers.

Other economists, however, including Mr. Harland Allen, state that the value of the dollar will be no more precisely known, but that it should fluctuate less violently and also be less subject to speculative influences.

The modification of the gold embargo has not affected the United States markets, as was expected.

Meanwhile, the White House has explained that the ruling keeps the refining processes in America and enables a better check to be kept on hoarders. It also tends to increase employment.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

WHEAT RISES IN CHICAGO.

September silver, traded on Tuesday at $7.15 per ounce, closed yesterday at $6.94 per ounce. The total sales of the day were 252 contracts of 25,000 ounces each, as compared with 351 similar contracts for the preceding day.

WALL STREET DECLINE.

Indecisive Position Of Market.

New York, To-day.

Traders were hesitant on Wall Street yesterday, and it is anticipated that some time will elapse before stocks reach higher levels.

The silver market was largely a trading affair, in sympathy with the waiting attitude in other markets.

Industrial and rail averages declined 1.24 and 1.01 to 102.35 and 52.80, while utilities and bonds weakened .03 and .24 to 31.03 and 87.33. Business was average, 2,170,000 shares being traded.

Smart Wet Weather Modes

The Matching Raincoat.

The inclement weather at recent smart functions in Paris has given many opportunities for learning how to look well in a summer raincoat.

Raincoats and tweed overcoats were worn over floral, spotted or striped Chinese and marocain frocks. Wild flower prints on back grounds looked gay, and so did a grass green and white field flower patterned Chinese frock under a black white raincoat, with a green velvet collar, toning next a broad-brimmed straw hat.

Other broad-brimmed hats of white had black velvet crowns which, in their turn matched black frocks under white raincoats. There were many of these white showerproof coats, and some women wore them belted and buttoned to show muffler ties and helmet turbans that matched.

Turbans with Ruche.

One of the turbans, with a tiny ruche crossing obliquely from front to back over the oblong crown was in red and white candy striped gingham, while others were in navy blue and white spotted or pin striped marocain. Pale grey looked most alluring, worn with a scarlet felt "gigolo" sailor shape. A very smart dress that seemed to follow on this simple line was a chemise in black linen, with a front bodice fastening of four steel buttons.

FOOT CARE FIRST FOR BEAUTY

Choosing Shoes For Business.

The woman who stands on her feet all day may develop thickened ankles and swollen feet. She must put foot-care first in her beauty regime.

When choosing a shoe with an eye to business, be sure that the breadth of the widest part of the sole is not too narrow for the sole of the foot. Have a medium heel (about one and a half inches is a good height) and choose a last that really supports the instep. The shoes should not be cut away or be of the sandal type, and they must fit snugly round the ankle.

The feet must be bathed regularly in a foot bath with special salts or a solution made by dissolving a handful of kitchen salt in a basin of warm water, adding 10 drops of colourless iodine.

The housewife or mother, whose "work is never done," has one more duty which, if she is intelligent, she will not neglect—her beauty.

"But it takes so much time..." she may complain. Ten minutes to a quarter of an hour a day will do to cleanse, stimulate, nourish, protect that skin of hers. But it must be a daily routine.

After frying onions or fish put a little vinegar in the pan. This will quickly remove the odor.

BEAUTY HINTS FOR OFFICE GIRLS

Double Chin Danger To Typists.

CARE OF NAILS WHEN TYPING

"Typist's neck" is a common complaint among secretarial and clerical workers, and the habits of drawing in the chin and of letting the head drop on the chest while working are its usual causes. The muscles get slack and sag, resulting in double chin or crepe neck.

To avoid this calamity, see that the chair you work upon is the right height and your table in a good light, and have a hard cushion at your back to give you support. This will not only prevent chin-sag, but will stop that ache across the shoulders that comes at the end of a hard day. Keep the chin level while working. This is quite easy if you are sitting comfortably, and there is no necessity to strain the eyes.

In your beauty treatment give special attention to neck and chin. These are your danger spots. Extra nourishing creams and firm-

Good Looks And Daily Diet

Fruit Juice Should Find Place On Menu.

VEGETABLE WATER BENEFICIAL

We are all pretty knowing about diet these days, being up in vitamins, calories, and the rest, which is much to the good. Women and girls now receive the training in food values that is necessary to a healthful regimen of daily meals, and it is our own fault if we do not carry what we know into practice for our own benefit and the benefit of our families.

Even if our practice may be somewhat patchy it may be said that the longstanding reproach regarding "women's meals" as compared with men's no longer applies.

Indeed it might be argued that women on the whole eat more sensibly than men do. They are less conservative, consume less meat, and relish those things which are good alike for the stomach and for the figure.

Too Little Liquid.

But it is a common fault for women to drink rather too little liquid, particularly between meals. We could well take an extra cup of very weak tea both at breakfast and in the afternoon, and we often forget the great value of copious draughts of water at intervals both during the day and at wakeful moments in the night, also first thing in the morning.

Where there exists either a rheumatic tendency or the inclination to be constipated the grand cure is to combine with such water-drinking the salts of vegetables, especially those of that humblest of vegetables the cabbage.

It is no exaggeration to say that if women and children all acquired the habit of drinking night and morning—last and first thing—a good half-pint of water in which greens have been boiled there would be fewer doctors' bills besides a grand accession of energy and well being.

Spinach water and cress water are particularly valuable to those who suffer from anaemia. The first mentioned is peculiarly pleasant to taste. The juice of fresh oranges and lemons ought also to be a part of the day's dietary, varied with tomato juice, which, can now be bought ready tinned or bottled.

ing massage at night are necessary, and whenever possible during the day or first thing in the morning, a few rotary and relaxation exercises should be practised. Also wringles and crows' feet should be avoided. And so the business girl who is wise goes periodically to the oculist. She bathes her eyes whenever possible directly the day's work is ended, but, if not then, as regularly as clockwork before going to bed.

When you are learning to type, try to hit the keys with the pads of the fingers, and not with the nails. You can then keep them prettily manicured instead of jagged and broken.

SIMPLICITY IN HAIR-DRESSING.

New Coiffure Favours Left Side Parting.

Simplicity is the keynote of the latest coiffure, which is worn partly straight and partly curled. This style seems to be winning favour among all women who desire to look neat, and it is its very simplicity which enhances its beauty.

The new coiffures favours a left side parting. The hair is combed perfectly smooth over the top of the head, the first wave is set at about the level of the eyes on each side, and is set in a backward movement behind the ears. The ends are curled.

The back hair is worn long enough to permit of a cluster of sculpture-like curls, which cover the hair line at the nape of the neck. Their firmness is ensured by the discreet use of lacquer.

Fold the edge of the material over before putting on bias binding and the binding will not break away.

Savoury Semolina and Cheese

3 tablespoons semolina; ½ pint water; 2 eggs; 4 oz. grated cheese; 1 oz. butter; 1 small onion; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; ½ teaspoon mixed herbs. Boil the semolina in the water for 20 minutes, stirring very frequently. Place on one side to cool. Grate the cheese, mince the onion finely, and add them, with the yolks of the eggs, pepper, salt and herbs to the semolina and mix all well together. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, add them the last thing, taking care that all is well mixed and pour into a pie dish in which an ounce of butter has been dissolved. Bake in a moderate oven for about ¾ hour.

Sage and Onion Patties.

Sage and onion stuffing. Mashed potatoes. Butter. Well butter some small patty pans, nearly fill them with the stuffing, then pile up with very rich mashed potato. Bake until nicely brown, turn out and serve quickly. The addition of apple sauce and gravy will be found an improvement.

Green Corn Griddle Cakes.

Score the kernels of 12 ears of green corn. With the bark of the knife scrape out the pulp. To the pulp add 4 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup flour, sifted with 1 teaspoon each baking powder and salt. Add 3 tablespoons butter. Cook as griddle cakes. Serve with butter and granulated sugar.

Onion Soup.

6 or 8 large onions; 4 large potatoes; 1 quart water; 2 teaspoons salt; 2 teaspoons sage, 1½ oz. butter; 1 doz. peppercorns; a suspicion of mace and mixed herbs in muslin. Dissolve the butter in a saucepan then place in the onions sliced, and stand the pan over a gentle heat, shaking frequently. In the meanwhile peel and slice the potatoes and add them to the onions, together with the water, salt and flavouring. Boil for an hour and a half. Lift out the muslin bag. Stir in the sage and continue stirring for 10 minutes, then strain.

Pineapple Medley.

1 large tin of sliced pineapple; 2 bananas; 1½ oz. almonds; 2 oz. glace cherries; 3 dessertspoons orange juice; 1 tablespoon rum; ¼ oz. gelatine; cream. Drain the pineapple and put it through the mincer, keeping back 3 slices for decoration. Blanch and chop the almonds, cut up the cherries and peel the bananas and cut them into small dice. Dissolve the gelatine in a saucepan with half a gill of the pineapple juice, warmed, then strain it into the remainder of the juice and add the rum and orange juice. Stir in the minced pineapple and other prepared fruits and almonds then turn them into a mould which has been rinsed out in cold water. When quite set, unmould the medley and decorate it with whipped cream and the remainder of the pineapple. Serves 6 persons.

BRIDGE NOTES

"ONE OVER ONE"

By ELY CULBERTSON

Various "One Over One" authors maintain that the Forcing "One Over One" response saves one or more rounds of bidding. The Forcing One Over One actually fails to save even a single round. As a result, the so-called One Over One "systems" lose their principal justification, because they are based on a fallacy—a fallacy that is, in my opinion, the most remarkable fallacy in the history of Bridge.

The confusion of a great many meaningless generalities has muddled the entire subject of "One Over One" bids. Even the meaning of the phrase "One Over One" is mysteriously vague, so that now there are almost as many One Over One "systems" as there are players. It will be obvious to any student of the game that all these so-called "systems" are nothing but variations of the Culbertson (Approach-Forcing) System.

The name "One Over One" was coined by Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, my associate and one of the three or four truly great analysts and master players of to-day. In his book for advanced players, entitled "High Lights of the Culbertson System," Mr. Lightner states:

"To use this catchy name 'One Over One' to characterize an entire system, as is being done by certain writers, is simply an attempt to convey a false impression that there are two different systems, one called the Culbertson (Approach-Forcing) and the other the so-called 'One Over One.' Inasmuch as it happens to be I who originated the name and the Forcing variation 'One Over One,' the absurdity of such claims is all the more apparent."

In a general sense the words "One Over One" simply mean that, in order better to disclose information on strength and distribution of partnership hands, the bidding should, whenever possible, be kept within the range of suit bids of one. As a result, the bidding is kept low and overcrowding of inferences is avoided. "One Over One" is simply another name for Approaching, which is one of the basic principles of the Culbertson System and which to-day forms part of any system, be it the Vanderbilt, the Official or the "Never Slip" System.

In its technical and more specific sense, the One Over One is not a system at all, but simply a procedure or method of responding to partner's suit bids of one, which is highly characteristic of the Culbertson System.

A One Over One situation occurs when a player opens with a bid of one in a suit and his partner with a bid of one in another suit, or when partner responds with a bid of one in a suit and the Opening bidder makes still another response with a bid of one in a suit. For instance, assuming that opponents always pass, all the bids in the following situation are One Over One (South opens).

South	North
1 Club	1 Diamond
1 Heart	1 Spade

A one notrump response closes the chain of One Over One bids. In connection with this bidding situation, there arises the important problem of how best to fit in partner's responses so as to obtain the maximum information and yet keep the bidding low enough. Inferences in partnership bidding can be compared to a telegraphic code of dots and dashes. In telegraphy, the underlying principle is terse economy of words; in Bridge, it is economy of bids that counts. The waste of even a single round of bidding many easily shut out valuable information on the peculiarities of a hand by crowding out a number of important inferences.

An Unusual Safety Play. During the course of an evening's play there are many contracts which are defeated because of unfortunate ruffs by the defence. Many a seemingly iron-clad final contract is defeated because one of Declarer's high cards is trumped by an insignificant deuce before the card can be removed from the opponent's hand. However, in a recent Duplicate game at Crookford's Club, I was fortunate enough to be the only Declarer to fulfill a doubled game contract, because an unusual way was found to forestall the well-laid plans of the defence and prevent ruff, which would have doomed the hand to defeat.

The hand was:

The Opening lead was the heart 10, which East promptly overtook with the Knave and led the diamond 3. I now took stock of the situation. From the bidding, the East hand was correctly marked with a string of hearts, topped by the Ace-King-Queen-Knave, and also the King-Queen of spades, guarded at least once. His diamond return was obviously a singleton and it was apparent that a diamond ruff was the only way the contract could be defeated as all I had to lose was 2 heart tricks and 1 trump trick. How could West be placed in the lead to allow East to trump a diamond lead?

East must have some hope of putting in his partner or he would not have made his quick shift to the diamond suit. That hope, I further deduced, could only be in the heart suit. In other words, East was missing either the 9 or 8 of hearts and would lead a low heart as soon as he obtained the lead with one of his spade honours. This would place West in the lead. How could I forestall such a play? That was the problem.

One vague possibility appeared. From East's strong bidding it was very likely that he had something in clubs. If East had the Queen and Knave of clubs, this impending ruff could be avoided. Accordingly, I took the diamond return with the diamond 10 in Dummy and immediately played my Ace and King of clubs. 1 played the Knave of spades from Dummy, and East, of course, split his equal. I took the Ace of spades in my hand, and now, before giving East his high spade, which was the obvious play, I led the club 10 from my own hand, discarding on it the losing heart in Dummy. Since the heart trick was a loser anyway, nothing was lost by giving it up in this devious manner. For a change, the well-laid plans of the opponents did not "gang a-gley," as West was forced to play small on my Ten-of-clubs lead, and East had to take the trick. The rest was smooth sailing. East returned another heart, which was ruffed in Dummy, and then I gave him his high spade. His last trump was drawn, and the rest of the tricks were taken by a trump and the high diamonds.

A well planned defence was beaten by a strong counterattack.

ROUND HONG KONG'S CINEMA THEATRES

MAIL REVIEW

"CYNARA"—KING'S THEATRE.

"Cynara," now showing at the King's Theatre is a story of the eternal triangle told in a new way. Ronald Colman heads the brilliant cast, which includes Kay Francis, Phyllis Barry and Henry Stephenson.

The story, which is based on the novel, "An Imperfect Lover," by Mr. Gore-Brown, is a humanly romantic drama of a happily married man, who, in his wife's absence, becomes involved in a love affair with a shopgirl. The intrigue results in the wreck of his home and happiness.

Ronald Colman surpasses himself as the husband and Kay Francis, as his forgiving wife, gives one of the finest performances of her career.

"TO-NIGHT IS OURS"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"To-night Is Ours," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, offers exceptional entertainment, and is one of the best films to be seen locally for some time.

Fine emotional acting on the part of Claudette Colbert and Fredric March is a feature of the production and the remainder of the cast, including Alison Shipworth, Paul Cavanagh and Arthur Byron, give splendid support.

The story is a love romance between a Princess and a commoner. They meet at a Bal Masque and fall desperately in love, only to have their romance cut short when the Princess is recalled to her country to be married for State reasons. A year later she is shot at by an assassin but is saved by an unknown hero who turns out to be her lover. They are reconciled and despite difference of social standing, they are lovers again.

"BACHELOR'S AFFAIRS"—MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"Bachelor's Affairs," which is now showing at the Majestic Theatre, shows Adolphe Menjou in what must be one of his best roles in his successful career.

Menjou is seen as a wealthy bachelor who is happy and contented until he is swayed into marriage with a foolish young flapper, with a charming gold-digging sister. Then his troubles begin and in trying to get rid of them, he resorts to all manner of subterfuge leading to many complicated situations that are highly amusing.

"LAUGHTER IN HELL"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

WANTS A FASCIST EMPIRE

Sir Oswald Mosley
Aims Revealed.
BRITAIN'S MYSTERY MAN.

London, August 9. Nobody has taken Fascism very seriously in this country, but in the background, bobbing up into the picture every now and again, flits the mysterious figure of Sir Oswald Mosley, chief of the British Blackshirts.

We know he is in his 37th year. We know he is rich. We know he takes himself and his movement very seriously, but few people have more than a vague idea of what he hopes to achieve.

The "Sunday Express" asked him recently if he would say frankly what were his aims. And this was his reply:

To abolish Parliament as it exists to-day.

To abolish the House of Lords. To raise wages to provide increased purchasing power to end unemployment.

To create a Fascist Empire.

NUMBER A SECRET.

At the headquarters of the British Blackshirts, within a stone's-throw of Buckingham Palace, I questioned Sir Oswald about his movement.

I do not think he is in any doubt as to what he wants to do. He controls a number of young men of all classes. Their number is kept a secret.

They receive no pay. Even those on the headquarters staff work with fanatical energy for next to nothing, he assured me in answer to a question.

My questions and his answers were:

What is the strength of your Blackshirt army? Is it strong enough for your purpose?

If you refer to the Fascist Defence Force, which is used to maintain order at our meetings, the strength of this organisation is never revealed. If you are engaged in a struggle with a very bitter enemy as we are with the Socialist-Communist forces of this country, it is unwise to reveal your strength at any given time to the enemy.

LEGAL METHODS ONLY. Will you use force to attain power?

Our attitude on this question has often been defined with precision. We seek to attain power by legal, peaceful and constitutional means. In the first instance, we seek to establish Fascism throughout the land. At a later stage we shall seek to capture power through a parliamentary election.

We shall use power to confer on a Fascist Government absolute power of action. We have always frankly stated that it is possible something like collapse may come to this country before democracy makes up its mind to act.

In that case the Communist Party and other forces which seek to use that situation to overthrow the State will attempt an armed revolution against the State; in that case we shall meet force with force and will crush Communism.

In any event, Fascism will come to power by legal and constitutional means.

LOYAL TO CROWN. Will you do away with the monarchy?

Certainly not. We are loyal to the Crown.

Will you abolish Parliament?

We shall certainly abolish Parliament as it exists to-day.

The first act of a Fascist majority in Parliament will be to confer upon the Government the absolute power of action which is necessary to-day. The duty of Fascist members of Parliament will be not to talk to obstruct business at Westminster, but to undertake executive tasks in their own localities for driving through the work of Fascist government.

Will you abolish the House of Lords?

Yes, it will be replaced by the National Corporation of Industry.

Will you drive out the Jews?

We are not anti-Semitic. We raise no sectarian issue of any kind. We concentrate on Fascism.

Jews will not be persecuted under Fascism, as such racial and religious persecutions are alien to the British character. Would you abolish trade unions? Trade unions on the one hand and employers' federations on

INDIAN FAMILIES CHILD WELFARE

New Clinic Opened By Mrs. Borrett.

FIRST OF ITS KIND IN FAR EAST

Mrs. Borrett, wife of Major General O. C. Borrett, yesterday opened the new Indian Families Child Welfare and Ante-natal Clinic situated in Jordan Road, Kowloon, opposite the Diocesan Girls' School. The ceremony was attended by British and Indian officers of the various Indian regiments stationed here, together with a number of other friends and well-wishers. Lt. Colonel J. H. Thom, D. S. O., R. A., explaining the objects of the clinic, said that the families of the Indian troops could, of course, go to the Government hospitals, where they would get the best of treatment, but this procedure presented certain difficulties—the difficulties of distance, language, food and delay in getting a bed.

It was the intention of the clinic to treat maternity cases and such other cases as could be dealt with locally, thereby relieving Government hospitals to some extent.

A fully-qualified nurse would attend the clinic twice a week, said Lt. Col. Thom, but would be available every day if necessary arose. Certain ladies would also be asked to join the Committee to supervise the work of the Clinic.

Lt. Col. Thom then thanked Captain K. B. Gore, I. M. S. for the splendid work he had done towards the realisation of the project. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Patell for their generous monetary gifts, and all those who had in any way contributed to the undertaking.

The Clinic is a single-storey building facing Jordan Road and standing about 30 feet above the road. The ward is about 30 feet by 20, and has accommodation for six beds. A dispensary has been installed. This is believed to be the first institution of its kind in the Far East.

the other will be employed in the Corporate State which we desire to build.

Class war would be abolished, strikes and lock-outs made illegal. In place of being the instruments of class war, trade unions would be together with employers' organisations the joint directors of national enterprise.

UNEMPLOYMENT CURE. Have you a plan to cure unemployment?

Yes. In short, we believe the only way to cure unemployment is in the shape of higher wages and salaries to buy the goods which the unemployed could produce.

This can only be done under the corporate system of Fascism, which raises wages and salaries simultaneously over the whole field of industry.

Pious exhortations to employers are useless, because no employer under the present system can raise wages without being undercut by some rival who will not.

BRITISH "TALKIES" BOOMING

$500,000 Bookings For
"Bitter Sweet?"

$3,500,000 TO BE SPENT
THIS YEAR

London. When the film people give a party, it is a party.

Recently during the World Economic Conference, the British film industry invited the foreign press representatives to dinner. They asked their wives and secretaries too. Altogether they asked nearly 800 people.

After the dinner at London's grandest hotel, they took them on to the finest cinema in central London and ran through some British films.

There were news reels showing typical scenes in British life, a Jack Hulbert comedy and "Contact," the film which Paul Rotha has made of the Empire air routes. The journalists all thought it a very good party indeed.

But a story of real achievement lies behind that spectacular bathering.

A few years ago everybody agreed that the British film industry was dead.

One cinema manager said that to advertise a British film was like putting a "Keep Out" notice outside his theatre.

In 1932 half a dozen British pictures surprised everyone (except the few leading men who had planned them) by achieving a success all over the world. Since then British talkies have boomed. Fine new studios have been built in and around London. This year the industry is spending $3,500,000 on making new pictures.

The estimated costs of some of these pictures are:

Bitter Sweet . . . $75,000

Henry VIII (with Charles Laughton) . . . $75,000

I Was a Spy (Madeline Carroll, Herbert Marshall and Conrad Veidt) . . . $70,000.

Will the industry get back all this money, let alone the cost of that dinner party?

There is a good chance that it will for Australia paid $40,000 in bookings for "Sunshine Susie" alone.

Also the film king, Joseph Schenck, predicts that "Bitter Sweet" will have gross bookings of some $500,000. —Reuter.

AMAZING CAREER OF CRIME

"Man With 100 Names."

MASTER CRIMINAL CAUGHT IN BELGRADE

Belgrade. The police here have arrested a man called Anton Raguz whom they describe as "The man with a hundred names" and an expert thief.

They state that he specialises in stealing seals and documents which enable him to impersonate professional men, perpetrate fraudulent deals, and then change his identity.

Since he was last in prison, they allege, he has been in turn, Three different teachers, two different doctors, a dentist, a representative of the Holy Order of St. Cecilia, representative of the Zagreb Capitol, proprietor or representative of several firms, bank director and inspector of railways.

In each case, it is said, he had perfectly ordered papers with all the necessary seals, stamps, and signatures.

The police further declare that as a doctor he ordered goods which he sold and then left the bills unpaid; as a dentist he ordered gold from a well-known firm and disappeared with it; as representative of the Holy Order of St. Cecilia he organised several very successful collections for charity, which yielded him large profits; as a bank director and a teacher he secured large sums of money from four or five different girls whom he promised to marry; and as an inspector of railways he had a fully valid free pass on the railways.

When arrested he had stamps, seals and documents for thirty different personalities, including photographs, passports, private letters and other evidence of identity in each role. —Reuter.

LEOPARDESS TAKES VENGEANCE

Slays Youth Who Stole
Her Cub.

TRAGEDY IN AFRICA

Windhoek. The story of a terrible revenge wrought by a leopardess on a farmer who rode off with its cub is reported from Gobabis.

Two brothers named Brandt, when riding on horseback espied a leopard cub lying in the road sunning itself.

The younger brother dismounted, picked up the cub and rode off with his brother.

They had not gone far when they heard a rush behind them, and before they could do anything, the mother of the cub, which had evidently followed them, took a flying leap at the younger Brandt, who, not expecting the attack, was knocked from his horse.

Both leopardess and Brandt fell to the ground, the leopardess on top. Brandt had not a chance from the start, and the leopardess savaged him, biting and scratching.

The suddenness of the attack had disconcerted the elder Brandt, and it was only when his brother screamed that the leopardess was killing him that he managed to fire at the struggling mass and kill the animal.

The younger Brandt had been terribly mauled. His brother took him to the village of Pretorius, 50 miles south of Gobabis, and telephoned for a doctor.

The doctor could do little except ease the pain, and Brandt died five days later.

The main cause of the trouble, the cub, quietly ambled away during the struggle and was not seen again. —Reuter.

SWALLOWED HIS TEETH.

Schoolboy's Painful
Experience.

Bloemfontein. An 18-year-old schoolboy, Thomas Stoffberg, of Ventersburg, swallowed his false teeth while in bed.

When he went to bed he forgot to take the plate out of his mouth, and during the night he started coughing. The teeth were moved out of their position and slipped into his throat.

Failing to get them out, he swallowed them in order to get his breath. This was a very painful experience, but he could not think of any other way out of the difficulty.

At present he is receiving medical attention, and developments are being awaited.

It is expected that the plate will settle somewhere in his stomach, and that an operation will be necessary. —Reuter.

Madrid. Twelve convicts have made a clever escape from Valencia gaol. From an empty house next door to the gaol, friends of the convicts made an underground passage which ran right under the prison and deep holes were made at each of the cells of the men who were to be freed.

The construction of the underground passage is described as a positive feat of engineering and the walls were even reinforced with cement to prevent them from collapsing.

The men, who are well known "Red" extremists, have not yet been captured. —Reuter.

The largest dam in Europe, sustaining an immense reservoir containing 305,000,000 tons of water, was opened recently by the French President, M. Lebrun. The scene of this great feat of engineering is the Truyere, a mountain stream, in the district of Aveyron.

Between two rocky sides of a gorge, which is 500 feet deep, the great dam containing 627,816 cubic yards of concrete, has been built to a height of 345 feet. It was begun in 1929. Its width at the top is 720 feet.

What Is The Future Of Hitlerism?

Herr Hitler, in the rural retreat whence he overlooks the Austrian border, addressed a conference of Nazi leaders, to whom he outlined his plan for a new Senate—a chamber to be recruited from the notables of his own party, on lines similar to those of the Fascist Grand Council which fulfils so important an advisory function in Italy. Herr Hitler has always known how to profit by foreign example, and there can be little doubt that the astonishingly rapid erection of the party dictatorship in Germany has been due to the thoroughness with which the methods that had triumphed elsewhere have been observed and practised by him. He proposes now the establishment of a body to secure the permanence of the dictatorship, setting it above the chances incident to a personal control. It is essential, he is reported as saying, gradually to build up a Constitution. It is not stated whether he made any reference to the Constitution which he bound himself by oath to uphold when he became Chancellor in January last. Although Herr Hitler owes much to his study of foreign models, it is undeniable that the present Government of Germany has a character of its own. Yet it is permissible to doubt whether that character is such as to make for the permanence that he seeks to secure. The Nazi organisation of force was, and is, a remarkable achievement, and not less remarkable has been the rapid succession of long-prepared strokes which has changed the whole political and administrative structure of Germany beyond recognition within a few months. But effectively, to have fastened the authority and philosophy of one party, within so short a time, upon a great people in the front rank of civilisation is an operation which only time can attest. Again, the proposition that such a measure as the anti-Semitic persecution strengthens, rather than weakens, a regime is one the modern mind can hardly accept until experience has proved it. Nor is it yet clear that an attitude towards all opposition such as can succeed in Russia contains the secret of permanence in Germany. It is to be remembered that the establishment of the Fascist State in Italy was a matter not of months but of years. It represented—to put it no higher—at least as much a conquest of opinion as a victory of repressive methods far less drastic than those employed in Germany. Fascism, moreover, has known how to strengthen itself by playing its part in international statesmanship, and observing the conventions upon which it rests. It has not made itself a source of anxiety and unrest in the European situation as Hitlerism has done. As for the propagandist tactics lately employed to undermine the position of the Austrian Government, they have no parallel in the relations of civilised States. That was suggested in the quite friendly representations about to be made in Berlin by the British and the French Governments, as it had already been, less formally, by that of Italy. The reality of the revolution in Germany is beyond dispute. Whether it is a healthy and promising change is a very different question.

A Brilliant Air Record.

It was not to be expected that the long-distance non-stop record flight, accomplished last February by Squadron Leader Gayford and Flight-Lieutenant Nicholls would long remain unchallenged and unbeaten. They flew, it will be remembered, from Cranwell Aerodrome to Walvis Bay, in South-West Africa—a distance of 5,340 miles. But that superb accomplishment was beaten by the two French fliers, MM. Rossi and Codos, who took off from New York and came down at Rayak, about fifty miles north of Damascus, in Syria. They covered a distance, roughly speaking, of 5,657 miles, and the British record, therefore, was passed by 317 miles. It was a wonderful flight, and the two French airmen received the ungrudging homage and applause of every nationality. It was in fact, very much the flight which the two Mollisons had planned for their own return journey in the Sefarer. Yesterday it was announced that the French Aero Club had officially accepted the figures of the flight. Neither M. Rossi nor his companion, M. Codos, is a novice at the game. M. Codos, indeed, is one of the senior pilots of the French Air Union, and has helped in the making of several world records, while M. Rossi had already made an earlier effort with M. Bouscrot to beat the British record within a few hours of its achievement. The R.A.F. flight, it will be remembered, was in a Service machine, and the R.A.F. authorities disclaimed the idea that any record-making attempt had been made. Nevertheless, the sporting British public would have felt that the real objective of that flight, was Cape Town. They will certainly not be satisfied until another British machine, whether with R.A.F. pilots or not, has accomplished that journey, which would surpass the new French record by five hundred miles. But the laurels of the moment rest firmly and worthily on the brows of the two Frenchmen.

Country House Cricket
One of the most delightful private cricket grounds in England must be that in the grounds of Arundel Castle, belonging to the Duke of Norfolk.

In this natural arena, surrounded by magnificent trees, the annual match between a team got up by the Duke and another by Lord Eldon was played recently.

The big house parties which country house cricket involves have led to its decline.

Yorkshire is still a stronghold of country house cricket. But there, too, such activities have been sadly curtailed. For instance, the "Flittermice," a team which before the war used to have a cricket fortnight at Sir Murrrough Wilson's house, Cliffe Hall, near Darlington, now has but two or three days of cricket.

Loyalty

Sir Murrrough's brother-in-law and neighbour at Barningham Park, Sir Frederick Milbank, was once keeping wicket for Barningham against the team of a neighbouring house.

The butler was batting. An imposing and dignified figure, he walked out to a ball, and, having missed it, made no attempt to get back to his crease. Sir Frederick whipped the balls off and appealed.

But the square-leg umpire was the groom off the visiting house. Turning his back on the pitch he loyally replied, "Ah takes no notice."

2,000,000 GERMANS BACK AT WORK 6,000,000 AMERICANS GOING BACK TO WORK

"WHILE BRITAIN DILLY DALLIES"

London, July 30.
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and Chancellor Hitler are leading the world in a great war on Unemployment. They are taking risks and getting results with undreamt-of rapidity, state "Sunday Express" correspondents. For instance:—

Roosevelt has reduced the number of America's unemployed by 1,800,000 in less than five months, and has now mobilised the American nation behind him in a great wage-raising campaign by which it is hoped to put 6,000,000 more people in work by September.

Hitler, by a bold use of his drastic powers, has already created jobs for more than 2,000,000 of Germany's workless. What is the British Government doing? Just playing for safety. Waiting for prosperity to come instead of making it come.

How Roosevelt Is Doing It.

New York, Saturday, July 29.
Since President Roosevelt took office in March 1,800,000 of America's unemployed have returned to work.

His new prosperity campaign aims at taking another 6,000,000 off the unemployed role by the beginning of September.

When, late one night last week, he signed the National Recovery Act, he inaugurated one of the greatest experiments in the history of the world.

Nothing like it had ever happened before in the United States during peace time.

It was a war measure designed to mobilise the entire nation and march it patriotically forward into the greatest and perhaps the last battle with the old enemy depression.

President's Message.

That was last week. By today five million employers of America have received a blue and yellow envelope. That envelope contains a personal message from the President asking each employer of more than three persons to go into partnership with him "to raise wages, create employment, and thus increase purchasing power and restore business."

In each of those five million envelopes there is a blank form. Employers are asked to sign on the dotted line.

They are then pledged to accept the Government's "Blanket Code" to raise wages and lower working hours.

This "truce on selfishness," as General Hugh Johnson, administrator of the National Recovery Act, has called it, is said to be voluntary. In practice it is voluntary, but the Government is prepared to "put the works" on those employers who do not come into line.

The greatest ballyhoo campaign America has ever known is to be launched next week. Consumers particularly housewives, are to be asked to sign this pledge:—

"I will co-operate in re-employment by supporting and patronising employers and workers who are members of the N.R.A."

Propagandists are preparing the general public to boycott firms who do not co-operate. This is how it is being done:—

A one-time cowpuncher, Charles Horner, the man who "put over" the Liberty Bond issue, is using war-time methods to make the country ring with the Government's appeal. Gangs of four-minute orators are to be let loose on theatres and cinemas.

Full-page advertisements are to be taken in newspapers and magazines. Exhortations are to be delivered from pulpits of every denomination.

Splendid Results.
Messages from signboards, messages written in the sky, and messages trailed by airplanes are to appeal to the patriotism of every citizen.

Radio talks are to be given every day.

The ballyhoo was begun last Monday by Mr. Roosevelt himself, who explained the aims of his recovery programme to the whole nation of radio listeners. The results were encouraging. By next morning the desks of the White House were piled with telegrams.

But there are already snags. Vast firms with ample resources are willing to "cash in" on a display of patriotism, confident that the resulting rise in purchasing power is bound to benefit them in the long run.

But the small employer, the round-the-corner grocery store that is having a hard enough time to keep both ends together, is not so sure.

How Hitler Has Done It.

Berlin, Saturday, July 29.
More than two million pairs of hands which were lying idle when Hitler became Chancellor exactly six months ago on January 30 are today hard at work.

Another 500,000 unemployed are working hard in labour camps, or being drilled by officers of the army in the military training camps.

Every week the great army of unemployed grows smaller.

Lists of firms taking on new hands are published daily in the newspapers to serve as an example in others.

District after district in East Prussia reported that it had wiped out unemployment. Three days ago Herr Koch, the Hitlerite governor in this province, assembled all the unemployment commissioners and congratulated them on being only unemployed left in East Prussia!

How has Hitler done it? His dictatorial powers made it possible for him to override individual interests which so often stand in the way of large-minded employment schemes.

He promulgated a gigantic scheme enabling municipalities and other public bodies to put 500,000 men on road building, drainage, land improvement, and irrigation schemes. It was financed with money which would have been spent on doles.

Tax rebates and Government credits have been arranged for industrial concerns ordering new machinery, which means new orders for machine-making firms.

Freed From Taxes.

Any one starting a new enterprise in Germany which is without competition from other enterprises is freed from taxes entirely.

House building and house-renovation are being strongly encouraged by Hitler, the ex-house painter, by means of credits and tax rebates.

The State railways have ordered new railway stock, rails, and bridges. New underground railways are being constructed in Berlin and in Hamburg.

The motor-cars industry has been revived by an order that all motor-cars bought since March 31 shall be entirely tax free.

STEALING FROM R.A.S.C. DEPOT.

$5. Fine For Theft Of Bread.

Fung Yue, a "boy" employed at the R.A.S.C. depot, was fined $5, in default three weeks' hard labour, at the Central Police Court this morning for stealing three loaves of bread from the depot.

Captain B. S. D. Faithful, R.A.S.C., said that the remains of the morning supplies were occasionally issued to the "boys" on the understanding that they were not to take them out of the depot, but in any case the amount which the boy had was more than was generally given out.

STOEFFEN AND LOTT WIN U.S. DOUBLES TITLE

Titanic Struggle Goes To 65 Games.

CRAWFORD'S CHALLENGE ON SATURDAY

Brookline, To-day.

George M. Lott and L. J. Stoeffen won the American National Doubles Championship yesterday when they beat Frank X. Shields and Frank Parker, another American combination, by 11-13, 9-7, 9-7, 6-3.—Reuter.

Having made a clean sweep in the Women's Singles, the Mixed Doubles Championships, in which all the finalists were home players, America will be severely challenged for the Men's Singles Championship, which commences at Forest Hills on Saturday.

Jack Crawford, holder of the Wimbledon, French, and Australian titles, Fred Perry, Britain's leading player, and Jiro Satoh, the Japanese ace, are all expected to compete.

Crawford, the 25-year-old Australian Davis Cup captain, is attempting to establish a new record in the annals of lawn tennis by winning the four major titles in the world.

HELEN WILLS NOT RETIRING

To Compete For 1934 U.S. Title.

DOES NOT REGRET HER DEFAULT

San Francisco, To-day.

Helen Wills-Moody, who suffered her first setback in seven years when she was forced to leave the court owing to an injured leg in the Final Round of the American National Championship against Helen Jacobs at Forest Hills, has no intention of giving up tennis.

Mrs. Moody hopes to compete in the National Singles Championship in 1934.

Mrs. Moody said that she did not regret her action of defaulting when 3-0 down in the final set against Helen Jacobs, and said that she would have expected her opponent to have done likewise had the position been reversed.

The former champion is to rest for six months after which it is hoped her leg will be better.—Reuter.

Cool Retort When Challenged.

6 MONTHS' HARD LABOUR.

Tang Lan, an unemployed Chinese, was sentenced to six months' hard labour at the Central Magistracy this morning for stealing two suits of clothing, the property of Lau Kung-cheung and Ma Yu-chun, at No. 52, Johnston Road.

Detective Inspector Nolloth stated that the defendant gained access to the house by climbing the drain-pipe and entering through a window.

He was seen on the roof by a District Watchman who flashed his torch at the man and asked what he was doing there, to which the accused coolly retorted, "Go away; I am stealing."

He was arrested with the assistance of a police constable.

The accused's record showed two previous convictions for stealing.

AN OLD TRICK REPLAYED

$5 Roll Of Lead.

CHEAT GETS 6 WEEKS' HARD LABOUR

A round piece of lead, wrapped in paper, figuring as a $5 roll of ten-cent pieces, was used by Chan Sam, an unemployed Chinese, who was charged at the Central Police Court this morning with obtaining $5 by means of a trick.

He was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour and ordered to pay the complainant, Tsang Yam, of Jardine's Bazaar, $2.20 which he dropped when he was chased by the police.

Detective Inspector Nolloth said that the accused purchased a tin of milk from the complainant's shop for 64 cents. He rendered a $10 note and received $9.36 in change. He then walked to the front of the shop and returned saying that the milk was too costly.

Accused handed back the milk and the money, substituting what purported to be a $5 note of 10 cent pieces for $5 genuine money, and received his $10 note in exchange.

He was about to leave the shop when the complainant discovered the trick and chased him. During the chase the defendant dropped part of the money and only $8.10 was recovered.

MR. A. HENDERSON NOMINATED

Labour Candidate For Clay Cross Division.

London.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, the British Labour statesman and President to the Disarmament Conference, has been nominated Parliamentary Labour candidate for the Clay Cross Division of Derbyshire.

The vacancy is due to the death of Mr. C. Duncan, the Labour member, who defeated Mr. J. Weinbers (National Liberal) in the last General Election by 21,163 votes to 11,611.

Mr. Henderson was Foreign Secretary in the Labour Government formed in June, 1929, but later resigned, owing to disagreement with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald over the question of unemployment benefits, and for a time led the Opposition in the House of Commons.

In the last General Election, however, he was defeated by Rear-Admiral G. Campbell, the National candidate, at Burnley and has been out of Parliament ever since.—Reuter.

BIRMINGHAM DROP POINTS AT ST. ANDREW'S

The Hammers did well to hold the Arxyle to a draw at Plymouth and thus secured their third point in the Second Division. Last season they had an anxious period at the foot of the table, but a late recovery staved off relegation.

Notts Forest and Hull City, strong contenders for promotion, gained away triumphs.

Northampton Town are taking some time to settle down. Yesterday they were held to a draw at Aldershot after a home defeat at the hands of Luton on Saturday. They are, however, one of the strongest teams in the southern section.

Crystal Palace, who are expected to augment London's strength in the Second Division next year, took both points from the Rovers by a goal margin. They have a 100 per cent. record and have yet to have a goal scored against them.

Swindon Town recorded their second success of the season when they beat Queen's Park Rangers by a decisive margin on their own ground.

Hull provided the sensation in the northern section when they beat Chester by the only goal scored. They had previously been beaten by Carlisle. Chester are perhaps the strongest side in the northern section.

Walsall, who eliminated the Arsenal in the F. A. Cup last year, failed against New Brighton, and have only one point to date.

SPAIN'S "TRILBY" MURDERED

Strange Drama In Madrid.

A BRILLIANT SCHOLAR AND AUTHOR AT 14

Trilby is dead with four bullets in her heart. All Madrid is mourning her and discussing the extraordinary drama that lies behind her tragic end.

She is alleged to have been shot by her mother as she slept.

Her real name was Hildegart and she was beloved by the workers of Spain for her compassionate heart and her fight for the underdog. Thousands attended her funeral.

Much stranger than fiction is the astonishing story of a mother who possessed the powers of a Svengali and set to work to fashion a Trilby.

All Spain is asking: Did Aurora Rodriguez possess supernatural powers? And was Hildegart just a puppet in her hands?

The story is that Aurora Rodriguez discovered she had peculiar powers while training a young boy, Pepito Arriola, to become a musician.

She made a brilliant player of him but immediately the child was separated from her by his parents. He became a mediocrity. He lost his touch.

So the woman decided to have a child of her own and to make it a masterpiece, a genius.

She actually went to the lengths of publishing the fact that she had sought out a Scandinavian of fine physique to be the father of her child. She refused to let him see Hildegart when the baby was born.

Abnormal Knowledge.

Hildegart, proving brilliantly clever from her early days, was nurtured with the greatest care and by special methods. Her mother deliberately overfed her and would give her 12 raw eggs after a hearty meal. At 11 years of age the girl looked like 15.

Her capacity for absorbing knowledge developed on a corresponding scale. At 14 years she became an Advocate. Her mother obtained letters patent authorising the girl to be known simply as "Hildegart."

Two years later she had taken a degree as a Doctor in Science and Letters. She might have won her medical degree, only she threw up her studies in disgust, declaring that "Spanish medical faculties could teach her nothing."

At the age of 14 Hildegart took a prominent part as a lecturer and campaigner against the White Slave Traffic in Spain. When the Republic came, every kiosk exhibited her books on birth control, and kindred subjects.

Sensualism and bull fights, she maintained, were the two things in Spain that most needed suppressing. To thousands Hildegart was a "torch" with a world-wide mission, a sort of Joan of Arc.

Trained Like A Puppet

All this time Hildegart had been overshadowed by Aurora Rodriguez. She was watched day and night; trained like a puppet by the puppet mistress.

Then politics and a love affair proved to be the prologue to a tragedy.

Two Red leaders plotted to separate mother and daughter. An interview was arranged between Hildegart and a good looking Don Juan from Barcelona. With all the passion of a first love affair, Hildegart fell violently in love with him.

When Aurora Rodriguez realised that she had lost control over her child she is alleged to have put four bullets into her as she slept. She is in custody now.

But Trilby is dead. All Madrid mourns her.—Reuter.

END WILSON IN THIRD ROUND

Helen Hicks, the holder, Virginia Van Wie, and Maureen O'Connell, the most favoured American entrants, all recorded substantial wins against very mediocre opponents.

Miss Wilson is attempting to win the American title for the first time in her distinguished career on the links. She has already signified her intention of retiring should she achieve her ambition.

To-day's Short Story.

The Collaborator

By M. Armitage.

EVEN in his seminary days Father Bartolomeo, of the Church of San S., in Rome, had longed to become a composer.

As the lengthy crocodile wound its tortuous way down the crowded streets he put jingling tunes to the passing feet. When the crocodile disintegrated in the Borghese Gardens and scattered like a flock of jackdaws (under strict clerical supervision) he had visions of writing grand opera.

He came of a musical family. His grandfather had been a composer of real merit. He had been left an orphan at an early age, and for family reasons the Church had claimed him. He had no vocation for the Church; the nasal singing of the choir and the mediocre organ tortured his sensitive ear. Sacred music made no appeal. He repressed his longing to write secular music, and as the years went on he became a conscientious priest.

One day he noticed a young man lingering near the confessionals, unable to make the plunge.

"My son, do you, too, want to confess?"

The voice was sympathetic. Ugo Vanni moved towards the unseen speaker and gave a picturesque account of an ugly crime.

F. Bartolomeo urged him to tell the authorities. Some innocent person was bound to suffer. Ugo shrugged his shoulders. The crime was over and done with. What did it matter?

He seemed to be well educated, was remarkably good-looking, his laugh was free and easy, and he was not without charm. F. Bartolomeo reasoned with him, admonished him, coaxed him, all to no purpose.

"It is you and men like you who make the divine harmony a hideous discord, who change a cheerful melody (for happiness is song) into a scream of pain, and pizzicato of laughter becomes the death rattle. Is life then of no account?"

Ugo's face softened; he lost its flippant sneer.

"You make me almost in love with life, Father. I must make a new song of my life and bring it to you to harmonise."

F. Bartolomeo was so taken aback that he let the young man go.

DOCKYARD THIEF CAUGHT

Nine Years' Service Thrown Away.

FINED $75

Mak Lan, a store-boy employed at the Royal Naval Yard, was fined $75, in default six weeks' hard labour, at the Central Magistracy, this morning for stealing 45 pounds of brass, the property of the Dockyard.

Mr. Horace Lo, counsel for the defendant, pleaded guilty and asked for leniency. He said that the defendant's case was a sad one. He was only 24 years of age and had been employed in the dockyard for nine years, rising to the position of No. 2 Boy. Lately he fell into financial difficulties and, being pressed for money, took to stealing.

Detective Inspector Nolloth said that the defendant was arrested on leaving the dockyard gates. The brass was found tied around his waist in a girdle. "In his position as No. 2 Boy he is not usually searched," said the police officer. Mr. Schofield said that a serious view must be taken of the case, as he had obviously taken advantage of his position.

Contempt of Court.

As Mr. Lo was about to leave the Court a Chinese in the back seats was seen to be wearing his hat. He was promptly brought before the Magistrate for contempt of Court. The man, Che Xung, turned out to be a relative of the defendant.

Mr. Lo tendered apology on his behalf and said that the man was about to leave the Court and so had placed his hat on his head.

Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $1, to be paid into the Poor Box.

Without another word of exhortation. He was annoyed with himself. His little fish had wriggled out of the net. What did the young man's words mean? Could he be a poet? A composer? Would he come again?

Without realising it, the young man occupied a good deal of his thoughts, and he began to make excuses for him.

"There were extenuating circumstances. Those brown eyes with their long silken lashes would play havoc with the fair sex. Young blood is hot. A Neapolitan uses his knife on the smallest provocation."

Ugo Vanni came again to San S. and waited about to make sure that F. Bartolomeo was in the confessional.

"Is that you, Father?"

The voice which answered him was familiar. He pushed a thin roll of paper through the grille with a shamefaced laugh.

"I have dotted down an air. Tell me what you think of it when next I come as a penitent."

Through the cheap paper F. Bartolomeo caught sight of five rules lines and the treble and bass clefs. He looked up, but the young man had turned away and was leaving the church.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "The String of Glass," by Ruth Alexander.

F. Bartolomeo tucked the roll into his soutane with a pleasurable sensation. The maker of melody can never be wholly had, and contact had been established with a soul struggling to express itself in the noblest manner.

The air had decided possibilities, and there were four empty staves crying out to be filled.

The lure of those empty lines proved too great a temptation. F. Bartolomeo ruled another set on a sheet of paper, and crochets and quavers fell over each other in haste. Not for years had he enjoyed himself so much. When at length he was satisfied he took Ugo's sheet, set down the air, naked as a five-finger exercise, and then amplified it and made of it a thing of beauty.

And so it came about that, to save a soul, F. Bartolomeo began to study music again, and priest and sinner exchanged melodies. The core of an opera was taking shape.

The best part of the night was spent in writing and rewriting the libretto—Francesco, the hero, a headstrong youth cast out by his family for having mortally wounded his sister's wealthy suitor, attaches himself to a wandering musician, a blind harpist. Francesco's singing attracts Donna Bianca.

The overture, the scenes, the arias (with two exceptions), and the finale were all the work of the priest. The sinner, in virtue of having his name on the fly-leaf as composer, was ready with criticism of advice. He showed a pleasing sense of humility that only two of the arias contributed by him had been included in the opera.

Gone was the conscientious priest. His brother-priests became suspicious; they saw his lips move — was it in prayer? They saw his eyes blaze — what cause was there for righteous anger? He threw back his head, his mouth opened, his lips twitched — what was there to laugh about? Why so forgetful? Why late for Mass? And who was the young man seen loitering in the church, who spoke to F. Bartolomeo in the streets and on the Pincio? In his parochial duties there was no fault to find with their absent-minded brother. The poor turned to him in trouble; the children dogged his footsteps.

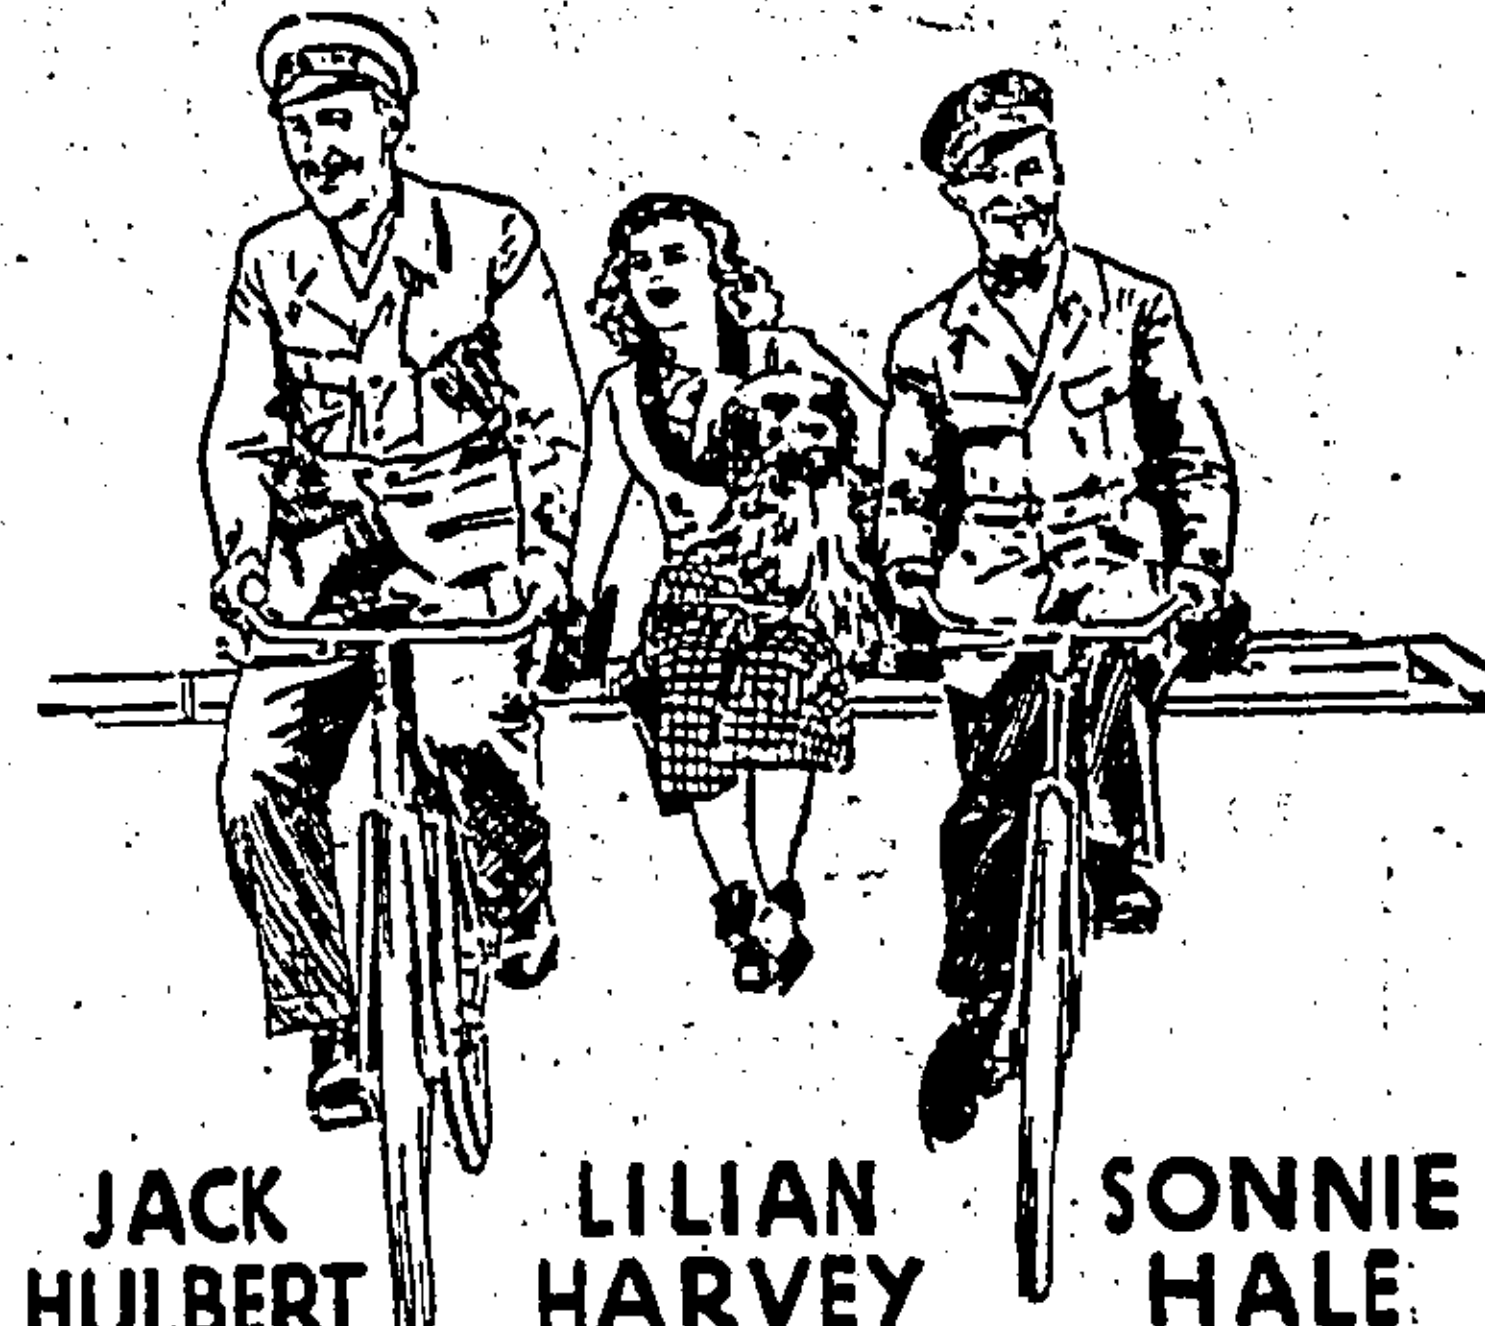

The score on the libretto were ready; but Ugo declared that it was useless to go to the publishers. Money had to be paid in advance.

F. Bartolomeo was puzzled. Why this sudden talk of money? Ugo thought and talked of nothing else. He seemed to have discovered how much had been extracted out of every known composer. The market value of a street ballad or a polka was of immense importance.

R.F. LUZ ENTERS THIRD FINAL IN OPEN

SMASHING WIN OVER B. W. BRADBURY

(By SHORT HEAD.)

FOR the third time in his bowling career R. F. Luz, the Recreationist, has entered the Final of the Colony Lawn Bowls Championship. Yesterday he completely outplayed B. W. Bradbury, the leading Craigengower skip, when he eliminated him by 21-3 after 18 heads on the K.B.C.C. green before a huge crowd of bowls enthusiasts.

Opening confidently, Luz took an early lead and after the 5th head there was never any doubt as to who would be the winner. He finished off the game on the 18th head with a glorious 4.

The best bowls was witnessed on the 13th, 14th and 18th heads when both players experienced difficulty when drawing at the Gum Club Hill end on long heads.

BRADBURY was beaten by a far better player who, by his remarkable drawing powers, dominated the game throughout. Bradbury occasionally bowled with great precision, but his main fault lay in being short.

Luz won the toss, but his first two woods were rather short, and Bradbury was lying 1 when Luz with his last wood took Bradbury's wood out to lie 2. On the 2nd head Luz drew well to lie 2, Bradbury failing in an attempt to carry the jack through. The 3rd head was very open, Bradbury's second wood taking the shot. Bradbury made the game more even on the 4th when he drew well for 1. Luz knocked his opponent's wood up to give the latter 2 to make the score 4-3 in his favour.

R. F. LUZ.

Luz registered another 2 on the 5th, drawing 2 and forcing Bradbury to use the backhand by good blocking.

The Recreationist earned rounds of applause on the 6th head with a remarkable last shot which carried the jack to the ditch for 2 after Bradbury had had a good lie for 2. Luz made the score 10-3 with another 2 on the 7th head by magnificent drawing to the jack. Bradbury's attempt at a drive made the count all the more certain.

Bradbury improved on the 8th head, being applauded for drawing well to lie 1. Bradbury was short on the 9th, a very long head, and Luz scored 1. The next head went in Bradbury's favour after he had drawn well and Luz had cleared the wood. The Recreationist, however, carried the jack forward with his last wood only to see it come to rest near his opponent's wood.

The 14th head brought forth the best bowls of the match, Luz with two perfect woods lay on the jack. Bradbury, however, cleared these and took the lie, but Luz, with a magnificent backhand shot lay once again on the jack. Bradbury's last draw to the jack failed by only a couple of inches.

The 14th head was even better. Bradbury bent down a great first shot, but Luz, with a better shot, pushed Bradbury's wood out to King; Army representatives, A. W. Kirtan-Vaughan, Lieut. Laine, C. Mullens; Navy representative, C. P. O. Tel. Clarke (H. M. S. Midway).

On the 16th head Luz widened the gap with a good 8, drawing well with Bradbury too short. Bradbury won the next head with a score of one. Luz had three back woods and was lying 1. Bradbury realised the danger and sent his third wood past the jack. Luz drew well with his last wood, but Bradbury cannoned off to lie 2. The score was now 17-8 in favour of Luz. The 18th head was sensational. Bradbury sent up the jack for a 14, but Luz drew to the 18th head and Luz drew to the 18th head and Luz drew to the 18th head.

Jack, Bradbury was again short with his other three woods and Luz bowled wonderfully well drawing each shot right to the jack, only inches separating the four woods. Many spectators called for a camera to record such fine bowling.

MISS YEUNG SAU KING MAY BRING OFF DOUBLE THIS EVENING

MRS. SCHREUDER'S CHALLENGE DONN EXPECTED TO BEAT LEUNG SHUI MAN

KWOK MAY EXTEND CAMPBELL IN H.K.I.A.S.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS

(By CRAWL.)

MISS Yeung Sau King, the Chinese lady champion who was forced to scratch from the majority of her events when favoured to win, may bring off the "double" to-night at the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association Championship Finals in the Y.M.C.A. bath.

Pitted against three Chinese opponents in the Quarter Mile she is expected to win by a very convincing margin, but in the 50 Yards she will have to throw in all her reserves if she is to stave off the challenge of Mrs. A. C. Schreuder, probably the best European lady swimmer in the Colony.

There are four final events to-night and most of the leading Association stars will be on view. The first event is timed to start at 5.45 p.m.

The main event of the evening—the Men's 50 Yards—will see the four fastest sprint swimmers in the Association in opposition. A. G. Donn, captain of swimming of the Y.M.C.A., and Chan Fook-sing of the Chinese Civil Servants' Swimming Club have both recorded 27-3/5 seconds in their respective 50 Yards heats as compared with Leung Shui-man (C.B.C.) who clocked 28 seconds. Leung Wai-sang (S.C.A.A.), who was the fastest loser, was only a fifth of a second behind Leung, but I do not think he will be placed.

I am inclined to think that the result will lie between Donn and Leung Shui-man, who are the two fastest Association men over this distance in the Association. Donn can do better than his time recorded in his heat and I would not be a bit surprised if he set up a Colony record.

Chan's Chance For Place.
Chan Fook-sing (C.S.S.C.) has enjoyed great success at the invitation short distance races at affiliated Club galas, and will certainly be in the running for a place.

I do not think he has yet touched anywhere near 26 1/2 seconds, which mark has been reached by both Donn and Leung Shui-man.

The Ladies' 50 Yards Free Style will be the second event on to-night's programme.

Miss Yeung Sau-king (South China), who, owing to indisposition was forced to scratch from the Ladies' 200 Yards Breast Stroke and 100 Yards Free Style Championships last Thursday and Saturday, will meet very strong opposition in this event from Mrs. A. C. Schreuder (Y.M.C.A.) one of the Colony's coming lady champions.

Miss Yeung's Time Better.
Actually Miss Yeung Sau-king's time in the heats was 1-1/5 seconds better than Mrs. Schreuder, but I am sure the Dutch lady is capable of better things.

Mrs. Schreuder's weakest points are her start and her turnings, both of which are most important in sprint races.

She has, however, a clean advantage in the plunge off the start, and has in the past invariably made up for any deficit in this manner.

I saw Mrs. Schreuder in training on Tuesday, but in spite of this being paced over the 50 Yards she could not better her heat time. She again failed at the start (C.B.C.), but I am quite confident that in spite of this because of her failure to lower her time.

I have, however, seen her swim the distance in 32 seconds, which is a little difficulty in saving off the is the best time to date for the distance. Providing she reproduces this form to-night she is expected to create a new Colony record for the distance.

Miss Chan's Puzzling Form.
Miss Chan Yuk-fai (C.B.C.), the other Chinese entrant, has shown puzzling form. I have seen her clock better times during the beginning of the season, but she had unfortunately been ill for some time which may be the cause for her being off form. In any case she will give Mrs. M. Read (Y.M.C.A.) a hard fight for third place, their times are within a fifth of a second of each other.

In the Men's 880 Yards Free Style, the Y.M.C.A. are assured of one title. W. T. Campbell, the Army champion, is a hot favourite for the event.

As I have previously stated, Campbell has shown a definite improvement since last year in spite of his "wheel wobble." On his present form it is quite likely that he will lower his time, and set up an Association record.

Kwok Must Stand Pace.
In his heat he bettered Kwok Chun-hang's (S.C.A.A.) time by about 30 seconds, but is capable of an even better display when fully extended.

Kwok Chun-hang (S.C.A.A.) is only making one appearance to-night, but with his amazing stamina and powerful breast stroke he will be a serious contender for the title.

If Kwok is also to keep within a dozen yards of Campbell throughout the race he will win it, as the Army champion is unable to sprint and consequently depends upon a substantial lead in order to win.

Chinese Clean Sweep.
The last event on to-night's programme—the Ladies' 440 Yards Free Style—is the first event in which the Chinese are solely represented all four places in the Final. Miss Yeung Sau-king (S.C.A.A.) should win this in the Final, but in spite of this being paced over the 50 Yards she could not better her heat time. She again failed at the start (C.B.C.), but I am quite confident that in spite of this because of her failure to lower her time.

I have, however, seen her swim the distance in 32 seconds, which is a little difficulty in saving off the

NAVY BEAT AIR FORCE AT CRICKET.

Two Wickets Win At Lord's.

London, August 19.
The Royal Navy gained a two wickets victory over the Royal Air Force in the annual cricket match at Lord's.

Batting first, the Air Force were dismissed for 178 but they recovered well in the second innings, totalling 311. The Royal Navy made 344 in the first innings and 147 for 8 in the second.

challenge of Miss Yeung Sau-chun, sister of the Chinese lady champion.

The smallest competitor in the championships, Miss Dora Lum (Chung Sing) will make her first appearance in this event.

Future Record-Breaker.
Although only standing about four feet six inches, Miss Lum is a beautiful swimmer, and in time should improve sufficiently to take her place among the lady champions.

Her style is perfect and with coaching she should develop into a record-breaker.

The following are to-night's events in their right order, giving the time of the winners of each heat for the four events:—

Men's 50 Yards Free Style:—
Leung Shui-man (C.B.C.) 28 secs.

Mrs. M. Read (Y.M.C.A.) fastest loser.

Men's 880 Yards Free Style:—

Miss Yeung Sau-king (S.C.A.A.)
Miss Dora Lum (Chung Sing)
Miss Chan Yuk-fai (C.B.C.)

A. A. ROZA Swims Fine Race.

GOOD TIME FOR 220.

A. A. ROZA, who is favoured to win the V.R.C. Junior Championship, swam an exceptionally fine race yesterday in the Members' 220 Yards "B" Class Handicap in the V.R.C. heats for Saturday's gala.

He swam second to B. Gosano, to whom he had given 18 seconds start, and completed the distance in 2 minutes 48 seconds, which is a very creditable performance.

Although unplaced in his heat, C. J. Smith caught A. M. Rodrigues, the University cricket captain, to whom he had given 30 seconds. Smith's time for the distance was 2 minutes 57 seconds.

M. M. de V. Soares, swimmer from scratch, easily closed the 15 seconds gap between him and L. Barros, the limit man, to win his heat in the Members "C" class 100 yards Breast-stroke handicap event in 83 seconds.

N. Delgado and J. D. Remedios also won their heats in spectacular manner.

ITALIAN AND U.S. BOXING FEDERATIONS AGREE.

Attempt To Stop Poor Fights.

Rome, August 24.

The Italian Boxing Federation, which has come into the limelight following Carnera's successful title bout against Sharkey, and the New York state athletic commission reached an agreement recently prohibiting Italian boxers from fighting or giving exhibitions in New York state without the approval of the Italian federation.

This is in keeping with the New York commissioner's campaign to prevent foreign fighters of little ability making matches in America and disappointing fans.

It also will prevent boxers disqualified by the Italian Federation from changing their activities to America.

KOWLOON GOLF CLUB IN SOUND POSITION

Increase In Membership During Year.

NEW OFFICIALS

A surplus of $2547.25 was shown on the year's working account as presented at the ninth annual general meeting of the Kowloon Golf Club at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The membership of the Club has now been increased to 323 which is over a hundred more than at the same period last year.

Mr. V. C. Labrum (President) took the chair and among those present were Messrs. D. C. Wilson (Vice-President), J. MacKnight (Capt.), H. T. Buxton (Hon. Secretary), W. Groves, J. H. Hunt, O.B.E., J. D. Thomson, A. L. Eastman, L. J. Cave, H. H. Mundy, T. Seddon, A. J. Dennis, A. T. Braley. The report and accounts were adopted and the chairman, Mr. V. C. Labrum then addressed the meeting as follows:

The accounts having been in your hands for the prescribed period I will, with your permission, take them as read, but before proposing their adoption I should like to make one or two observations that call for comment, and to review briefly the Club's activities during the past year.

I think we may congratulate ourselves on the very healthy condition of the Balance Sheet now presented, and the thanks of all members are due to our late Secretary, Mr. E. R. Price and latterly Mr. Buxton, who took Mr. Price's place, for their share in the success.

There is, however, occasion to sound one discordant note, and that is with reference to the $390.49 which has to be written off as Bad Debts. I think you will agree that this is far too large a sum for a Club of this size and, I hope, that the incoming Committee, in conjunction with our Treasurers, will keep a sharp look out for defaulters during the coming year.

The New Building Loan.
amounting to $1,200.00 has been paid off since these accounts were closed and, I understand that the remaining Debentures will be redeemed at the end of this year.

The following improvements have been carried out during the year. The 1st, 2nd, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th tees have been enlarged and will be in permanent use from the beginning of September. No. 4 tee needs rebuilding and this will be done as soon as time permits. No. 1 green across the stream was re-laid and is now in good condition, whilst No. 4 green was partially re-laid and should be ready for use when competitions start. The new putting green is getting into good shape and should be ready for play in about six weeks. Greens and fairways are in first-class condition and the whole course is one of the sportiest 9's to be found anywhere.

Tribute To Captain.

Our popular Captain, Mr. MacKnight, is responsible for all the improvements that have been carried out, and the excellent condition of the course is evidence of his untiring efforts in this behalf. The military authorities have given us every consideration during the year for which we tender our sincere thanks.

In connection with the Playing Fields Association, a notice was posted in the Club House inviting Members' support to this worthy object. The appeal did not receive the support your Committee anticipated, and it was decided to circulate a list of members. The result has been more reassuring, but there are still some who have not subscribed. Donations are limited to $2.00 and I hope that all those who have not yet done so will send in at once in order that a sum of money may be remitted to this Association worthy of our Club. With an average just under 8 sets for in their 8 matches the champions will meet their "B" team in their remaining fixture.

M. W. Lo and M. K. Lo (C.R.C.) beat H. T. Bee and H. Saluoy 6-2 beat S. H. Wong and P. C. Lee 6-0 social success, left us with a small balance on the wrong side of the accounts.

The roof of the Club House, which leaked rather badly during the heavy rains, has now been repaired, but unfortunately at an extra expense to the Club.

I should like to take this opportunity of acknowledging with keen appreciation Mr. Cock's gift to the Club of the interest due to him from his debentures. Your Committee have decided to purchase a barometer, suitably inscribed, with this sum of money.

Thanks are due to Messrs. MacKnight and Wilson for auditing the accounts.

Thanks are also due to Mr. Hunt and the officials of the Y.M.C.A. for allowing us to hold our Committee meetings in their building during the year.

I now beg to propose the adoption of the Report and Accounts and if someone will please second this I shall be glad to answer, to the best of my ability any questions that may be asked.

New Officials.

The following officials were elected for the ensuing year.

President: Mr. D. C. Wilson

Vice-President: Mr. J. MacKnight

Hon. Secretary: Mr. H. T. Buxton

Immersed in his work, F. Bartolommeo had not taken stock of the young man's character. He knew him to be a creature of moods, like every artist, and subject to fits of depression, but this talk of money was a new and a disconcerting phase. To reawaken his interest he gave him the opera and asked him to go over it carefully.

F. Bartolommeo was visiting a poor parishioner, a particular favourite, who always tried her best to mother him.

"I tell you Giovanni Matteo is up to no good. He's sly, that one. Don't let your soft heart be touched, Father. You'll not be the first he's taken in."

F. Bartolommeo laughed it off. He had heard Ugo addressed as Giovanni, and on one occasion as Matteo, but had taken for granted that all three were baptismal names. His thoughts never strayed far from the opera, "La Donna Bianca," so in imagination he saw the names Giovanni Matteo on the title-page instead of Ugo Vanni.

Gigina was not to be put off.

"There you go, Father dear, with your blue eyes in the clouds. Bring them down to earth and contemplate the men that walk upon it. You will see that they resemble the devil more than the angels. There's not much of the angel about Giovanni, or Ugo, if you prefer to call him that."

Gigina was not as contrite as she should have been. This tall priest with the dreary blue eyes, who came from Northern Italy, seemed unable to understand the Southern temperament. She kissed the downy head of the baby snuggling against her breast.

"Il povero. No more sense than a babe."

As F. Bartolommeo went down the steep stone staircase his first meeting with Ugo came back to him like a blow in the face. He stumbled, gripped the iron rail, and reached the next landing with some difficulty.

"All these months I have been consorting with a criminal. My silence has condoned his crime. My sin is the greater. Not even a grain of common sense? An acknowledged criminal! But what was the crime? Was it theft? Or could it have been murder?"

He stood still trying to remember, but his mind remained a blank. Confused and horrified, he slowly made his way down to the street, and there he found Ugo waiting for him in one of his most charming moods.

"The opera, Father. I have found a publisher, and not an extortioner. A bagatelle, two hundred lire, is all that is wanted. I know you have been worrying; it's too bad of me. My only excuse has been this pestilential malaria. I become an animal, a brute when the fever is on me. Now that it has gone I am myself again."

He looked up with one of his dazzling smiles.

"Fiducia mio, I have no wish to see the opera published. I have been foolish and have allowed old dreams to take hold of me to the exclusion of all else. Come, let us talk."

There was a narrow archway which opened into a dark passage between two grim old palazzi, built for a slave and not as sun-traps. Ugo caught the priest impulsively by the arm and walked a few yards down the passage; they were alone. His other hand shot out; he pinned F. Bartolommeo against the wall.

"Now, listen to me, old bat. You want your opera published, so that's that. You'll give me the money; I had meant to spare you, but I see that someone has opened your infantile eyes and you suspect. Non e vero? In a week's time I will come and not be content with less than two hundred lire. One lira short and I'll commit murder."

Odd how the sadness in the blue eyes hurt. Ugo must have had a lurking affection for the dreamer. It was inconvenient coming at this juncture, but it was a fact. He preferred to see that face gay, sentimental or foolish, but not sad. He let go with a strained laugh, and patted the broad shoulder.

"Forgive me, I am not myself. My temper is affected by this infernal sirocco. Trust me, and we'll get that opera published in no time. All Rome will be ringing with your melodies. But don't forget my two hundred lire."

Bianca. "Gli capelli biondi" ricocheted from one grim wall to the other after the singer had disappeared.

The priest remained leaning against the wall for some time. He was dazed, and suffering from shock. He felt no resentment. The words and the tune filled his senses to the exclusion of everything else. It was the first time that he had heard them sung.

Ugo said, "All Rome will be ringing with your melodies," and he spoke as if he meant what he said. "And Lombardy and Piedmont will sing them too, not at once, but later."

It was immaterial that another should be known as the composer. He wanted the world to hear, and especially the people of his own village, perched on its bare hillside.

During the following days he tried to concentrate on his priestly duties, and to remember the nature of the crime, but his thoughts refused to concentrate on anything but on "La Donna Bianca." He longed for the manuscript. An air would come back to him where the harmony lacked crispness.

"A crescendo would improve that passage, a pause and then acceleration to the end; that tremolo is out of place, the cadenza will sound better without it. I must alter it as soon as it comes back. What a fool to entrust it all to a knave, a charlatan (Dio grazia. What a voice!) When shall get it against?"

He wanted money. Absurd to say he would commit murder for a paltry two hundred lire. A threat to frighten me into procuring it for him. He reminded me of that excitable boy in the seminary. He too wanted to be a composer.

Then back swung his thoughts to "La Donna Bianca," and how to get it published. The two hundred was as difficult to come by as two thousand. Not a soul knew about the opera. He could he ask for even a small sum to produce the work of a man whose character would not bear the limelight, whose names were uncertain? A miracle alone would help him. He considered that his melodies were worthy of such help.

A side-chapel as dedicated to St. Cecilia. He spent the fifth and sixth nights in prayer before her altar.

"The libretto is as pure as thy white martyred soul. Thou didst create each character. Every melody but two were written under thy sweet influence. Patroness of music, accept my work, that men may be led to think of thee, and renew their love of all that is good in music."

In an ecstasy of emotion he remained on his knees until the flame of the votive candle before the shrine paled in the morning light. When the church was opened he caught sight of Ugo slipping through the door, and with him whirled in dust, and leaves and scraps of paper. The sirocco was blowing hard. He went up to Ugo and suggested having a talk outside, but Ugo was in a bad temper.

"There's no one about. Why not talk here? The sirocco drives me mad. Give me the money and I'll go."

F. Bartolommeo pointed to the other side of the aisle.

"S. Cecilia will never fail us. A little patience is all that is required of her votaries."

"Me, a votary! That's where you're mistaken. I've never written a note of music in my life. That reminds me, I want you to write two new airs instead of those two, you know. 'Chi piango!' and that one 'L'ultima parola!'"

He pulled out the manuscript from under his shabby coat and began to turn over the pages.

F. Bartolommeo was angry.

"So you've lied from the beginning and stolen those airs? You thief! What was your reason? You must have had some reason. Out with it!"

"I needed change of thought; you supplied it. Verdi makes money; why should not I through you? Why should not I through you?"

MAN SURPASSES NATURE

Purest Materials Are Made By Humans.

WELL-KNOWN CHEMIST'S VIEW

London.

Dr. F. A. Freeth, chief research chemist of Imperial Chemical Industries, does not agree with the view that things made by nature are necessarily better than things made by man.

Speaking at exhibition of refrigerants in London on this prevalent idea, he declared that practically no substance obtained from a natural source is pure—that is to say, the same all through—and that really pure materials can be produced by man.

By purity, he said, was sometimes meant "as good as could reasonably be got"—as in the case of milk—and sometimes it meant "non-harmful"—as in the case of water. Pure water was extraordinarily difficult to prepare, and he drunk in quantities it was exceedingly bad for health, as the fairly pure water obtained in the High Alps was known to be.

But from the point of view of refrigeration engineering, purity meant absolute purity. It meant that the chemical in question was absolutely the same all through—that if frozen it froze solid at a constant temperature; if distilled by the tons, the last ounce of mother liquor had the same composition as the first ounce of condensate and it was impossible to detect the difference between one sample and another. Man could achieve this high degree of purity. But nature could seldom do so.—Reuter.

2,000,000 GERMANS BACK AT WORK.

Agriculture, protected by new tariffs, has received a new hope. Prices are going up. Farmers are engaging fresh hands, many of them from the towns.

Nor is any one in future to be allowed to hold two jobs.

For instance, actors who have engagements on the stage are not being allowed to act for the films or to broadcast.

One of the most important reforms has been the removal of women from factories and offices.

The thousand-mark marriage bonus for brides who give up their jobs to marry has proved to be a powerful inducement.

Britain Sits and Waits.

Meanwhile the British Government is doing nothing.

Hitler has given his farmers tariff protection and put workers back on the land.

The British farmer is left exposed to cut-throat foreign competition—and agriculture is facing ruin.

Roosevelt is forcing up wages to enable the American people to buy more of America's goods.

The British Government sits tight on the 1931 "cuts" and does nothing to increase purchasing power.

Hitler is spending on new bridges and roads money that would otherwise go in doles.

The British Government has said emphatically, through Mr. Runciman, "No public works for us."

Hitler is granting credits to the German fishing industry to build new ships for the herring trade, to the detriment of British trawlers and the benefit of German shipyards.

The giant Cunarder is still lying half-finished on the stocks at Clydebank because the Government will grant financial assistance only on certain hard terms.

The British Cabinet is cautiously awaiting the play of natural forces to bring about a turn of the trade tide.

Despite this inaction, unemployment has fallen by 443,186 since the end of January.

Canadians to Visit Mysterious Bali

Bali, that mysterious tropical island off the coast of Java where Eve would have been almost over-dressed and native boys—although they have never heard of him—look like Gandhi, will be more than a name but no less a mystery to a number of lucky Canadians by this time next year.

For Bali, literally unknown until a motion picture director took his cameras and microphones there a year or so ago, has been added to the itinerary of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain's 1934 world cruise sailing from New York January fourth.

Balinese, simple and unaffected, acted a charming love story for the screen. But they had to be taught what a kiss was. They live in a land of temples. Although education is not a strong point they can still count the few white people who have ever visited the island. They cannot count the number of dogs they own. They save the bodies of their dead until the last member of a family dies and cremate them all together. They worship bats and have 500,000 in one sacred cave. When priests send word that devils are abroad every man, woman, child and dog must stay within doors so nothing will impede the demons' quick departure. They love to dance, and on March 9 and 10, 1934 are specially performing traditional dances for the Empress of Britain's world cruise passengers.

In addition to Bali, new world cruise calls will be made by the big, white liner at Semarang, Java, and Zamboanga in the Sulu Archipelago. The cruise will visit 33 ports in 21 countries covering 30,000 miles in 100 days.

The pictures show a temple in Boelelang, a youthful humorist (top right) and a typical scene outside a native house where a cremation is about to be held.

OPIUM DIVAN RAIDED.

Liability Of Principal Tenant Proved.

WOMAN FINED $250.

Yun Chi, a Chinese woman, was fined $250, in default three months' hard labour, at the Central Police Court this morning, for allowing her premises at 3, Pak Si Lane, to be used for the purpose of running an opium divan and Wong Shing, a Chinese, was fined $50, in default one month's hard labour, for keeping an opium divan at the same address.

Mr. Wynne-Jones, the Magistrate, pointed out to the police the necessity, in cases involving the principal tenant, to be able to draw for him a plan of the premises showing that the access to the divan was through a common way under the control of the principal tenant.
